Home Buyer Profile*

"39% of home sales are first time home buyers and 65% of first time home buyers are between the ages of 18-35 representing the Gen X and Gen Y groups. These busy professionals are happier with sending one or two lines via text messaging rather than spending several minutes on the phone."

*According to the National Association of REALTORS

Social Networking - December 2007

"Text Messaging has become e-mail's newest rival when it comes to instant person-to-person communication. As the market becomes more challenging, a forward looking, text messaging solution can help set your real estate agency apart from your competitors."

Email Package- each listing can deliver a custom email to the potential buyer. This email can contain any information relevant to the home and up to 5 attachments. The email appears to be from the agent and the agent receives a copy of the email including the prospective buyer's email address.

Call Me Option- the potential buyer can request that the agent contact them directly. The system will notify the agent via email or text that the potential buyer is interested in being contacted as well as provide the phone number of the prospect.

Advanced Reporting- Our system provides an array of advanced reporting capabilities that provide both detail and summaries of messaging activities. The reports include property, date, time, email address, and phone number. In addition, a weekly activity report is sent each week.
